FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Alberni Indian Residential School Project to announcement Phase 1 results

(Port Alberni, B.C. – February 13, 2023) ćišaaʔath (Tseshaht) First Nation will be publicly releasing the Phase 1 findings from research and scanning through the ʔuuʔatumin yaqckʷiimitqin (Doing It for Our Ancestors) project on February 21, 2023 at 1 p.m. The announcement will be held at the Maht Mahs Gym located at 5000 Mission Road in Port Alberni, BC, on ćišaaʔath territory with limited seating. It will also be livestreamed publicly on the Tseshaht First Nation Facebook Page.

“We know this news can be difficult for all residential school survivors, their loved ones, communities and Canadians. However, this work is essential as we embark on this journey of truth,” said Wahmeesh (Ken Watts), Elected Chief Councillor. “These preliminary findings provide survivors and our Nation with the knowledge and tools needed to continue our important and sacred work. We will never know the exact number of children who did not make it home, however we are committed as a Nation and caretaker community to uncover the truth and honour survivors and children who did not make it home. As we progress through the next phases of our research and scanning, we will continue to do our best to find answers, maintain a cultural and spiritual safe space for Survivors and change the narrative of where this ‘school’ once stood. We never consented for it to be placed on our territory, but we are doing our part to educate the world about what happened at AIRS. There cannot be reconciliation without truth.”

The AIRS project team will host a presentation, rooted in ćišaaʔath culture, to release the results of the extensive research and scanning that has been conducted over the last 18 months. Health and wellness supports will be on-site and available throughout the day.

Media outlets that wish to attend the announcement must make arrangements and submit their questions in advance with the AIRS media contact below. Interviews will only be held after the announcement.
